Citrus Production Practices E-learning Course registrations are now open online!

The Citrus Production Practices E-learning Course is aimed at those who already have a basic understanding of agricultural production practices and need to expand their understanding of the technical and management aspects of citrus production practices.

The course is also aimed at those new to the citrus industry and whose responsibilities require that they have a sound understanding of the citrus value chain – specifically the production practices.

Structured over a period of 23 weeks, the course content covers all aspects of citrus production practices, including:

Induction; Production overview; Enterprise planning; Marketing; Food safety; Harvesting; Plant structures; Plant manipulation; Plant nutrition; Repairs and maintenance; Irrigation; Water quality; Propagation; Pest management; Diseases and weeds; Plant protection products application; Plant protection products safe handling; Crop establishment; Sustainable farming; Production management; Human resource management; Financial management and Agri tourism.

The cost of the programme is R2 875.00 per person, including VAT.

Registrations can be done on the Citrus Academy website. All of our courses are available on our e-learning platform where they can be accessed at any time.
