Keeping all RBX Group Stakeholders Informed

Note from the Managing Director

As the world went into lockdown 18 months ago most of us could see clearly that 2020 was going to be an extremely disrupted year. At the same time though we believed that the situation would soon pass, and we would be back to normal.

Over the 2021 northern hemisphere summer we have seen many of their social activities return to a more normal state. Their COVID-19 infection rate has been high, as a result of this, but the number of hospitalisations and deaths have been significantly lower due to their successful vaccination programme.

South Africa has not been able to reach the equivalent vaccination levels and at the same time have endured riots of a scale not seen in decades. This has severely disrupted the flow of goods in and out of the country with the international logistics melt down and lack of capability and capacity at South African ports exaggerating this.

The result is that the world economy remains under strain, and it is up to all of us to focus on what we can do to help, get vaccinated and stay safe.

Cheers - Rob

Celebrations All-round at RBX

Celebration was the name of the game on September 9th as we rewarded our long service employees and thanked them for their outstanding service throughout the years. The RBX Group believes in giving back to our employees and being an employer of choice.

The RBX Group hosted a virtual awards ceremony that involved all the staff from River Bioscience and XSIT with more than 200 employees online during the event.

Long Service Award Receivers

River Bioscience

Thobani Bisa, Craig Chambers, Fezeka Dyakala, Zoleka Marwanqana, Nombu Celia Polisa

XSIT

Eva Adams, Jerry Botha, Marshale Damon, Jan Fransman, Erenst Hugo, Alida Mentoor, Peter Valentyn

After the long service awards ceremony, we also recognized employees who live out our values daily. These employees were nominated by their colleagues for living out one or more of our core values.

It prides us to know that our employees celebrate one another for each accomplishment and believe that living our values makes us true to who we are.
